

Father Paul Kollman, C.S.C., is an Associate Professor in the Department of Theology at the University of Notre Dame, Indiana, USA. He is also a Fellow of the Helen Kellogg Institute for International Studies, the Joan B. Kroc Institute for International Peace Studies, the Nanovic Institute for European Studies, and the Ansari Institute for Global Engagement with Religion at Notre Dame. Previously he served as director of Notre Dame's Center for Social Concerns. Currently he is a trustee at Saint Mary's College, Notre Dame, Indiana, and the University of Notre Dame.

He is past president of the American Society of Missiology and the current president of the International Association for Mission Studies. His research focuses on African Christianity, mission history, and world Christianity, and he has carried out research in eastern Africa, Nigeria, and South Africa, as well as in archives in Europe and the United States.

Kollman has published articles and reviews in a variety of journals in theology, religious studies, and African studies. These include Theology Today, The Journal of Religion in Africa, The Journal of the American Academy of Religion, Theological Studies, The International Bulletin of Missionary Research, The Journal of Religion, The Journal for the Scientific Study of Religion, African Studies, The International Journal of African Historical Studies, The Journal of African History, and Mission Studies. In 2005 he published The Evangelization of Slaves and Catholic Origins in Eastern Africa, and in 2018 he co-published Understanding World Christianity: Eastern Africa. He is currently working on several projects, including a monograph on the Catholic missionary evangelization of eastern Africa, and a long-term study of the Catholic Charismatic Movement in Africa.